ISAAC ALLBRIGHT FAMILY (Continued)

with their parents and North Carolina listed as birth place of both sons.

This record indicates the family arrived in Tennessee after 1838.

In 1860 Henry S. Allbright continued to live in Haywood County, wife's name, Mary, and their children were five in number, the oldest George, age 7. Also J.R. Williams and wife Mary, 40, lived in Haywood with their five children, the oldest Elizabeth, 17.

Jesse and wife Narcissa with oldest child William age 3, born Tennessee, were living in Jefferson County, Arkansas as were Martha and William Hankins and William R. and Elvira Allbright.

The census records show the changing of these families. In 1870, William R. Allbright was again in Haywood County. Henry Allbright was still there and the census shows ten children in his household. Sara continued to live in Drew County in 1870. Jesse was in Jefferson County.

Sara died December 15, 1879 and is buried in Drew County where she spent her married life and where descendents now live.

In 1880 Martha was a widow and continued to live in the Jefferson County area of Arkansas. She died March 8, 1926 at the age of 99 years. Descendents¹³ still live in Jefferson County.

Jesse Allbright was living in the Jefferson County area in 1880. The writer does not have his date of death. His descendents are living in Jefferson County Arkansas.

In 1880 William R. Allbright was living in Poinsett County, Arkansas and although Henry Allbright in 1880 continued to live in Haywood County, he also moved to Poinsett County, Arkansas and lived there when he died June 10, 1913.¹⁴ In 1914 when Mrs. Henry Allbright recounted her husband's brothers and sisters, she indicated that "Polly" (Mary) had sons living in Quincy,

For the Advocate.

We are called upon to chronicle a few things in relation to the life and death of Sister MARY MATTHEWS. She was the daughter of John W. and Esther C. Carter, and consort of Rev. Jacob Mathews; was born Nov. 7th, 1814, in Wilson county, Tenn., removed to Henderson county, Tenn., when quite young, where she was united to brother Jacob Mathews, in matrimony.

Sister Mathews professed religion quite young, and joined herself with the Methodist Church; she lived an acceptable member until she died her pilgrimage with joy, on the 16th inst., a disease which terminated her death was produced by her physician to be consumption, or cancer. She bore her afflictions with Christian fortitude, speaking frequently of her future home, and always assured her friends that "all will be well." The writer was present, and saw her last farewell gaze of this world, and was filled with the truth, that the Christian could die the world. Sister Mathews has left a husband and eight children to mourn their loss; but their loss is her infinite gain—hence, weep not as who have no hope. May the good Lord sanctify his dispensation of his providence to the good of the surviving friends.

For the Advocate.

The Rev. Jacob Mathis.

The Rev. Jacob Mathis was born in Rutherford co., Tenn., Aug. 22, 1800; moved to Madison co., Tenn., when quite young, afterward to Gibson co., Tenn., where he spent the most of his life, which was closed by a peaceful death, April 27, 1876. He made a profession of religion at the Salem camp-ground, about the year 1834. Soon after he joined the Methodist Church. Feeling that his work was more than that of a private member, he soon applied for license to exhort, which was granted him Sept. 18, 1837. Next year he was granted license to preach on the gospel of Jesus Christ, on the 29th of June, the Rev. G. W. D. Harris, presiding elder, signing the license, which was regularly renewed until he was eligible to deacon's orders, conferred at Paris, Tenn., Nov. 5, 1843, by Bishop Scales. He was ordained elder at Jackson, Tenn., by Bishop Mathis, 1847.

Brother Mathis was not blessed with an early education, but was which he greatly improved by reading good books. The Bible was the Book of books with him, and from it he drew daily mental and spiritual food. Perhaps no man has been more zealous, active, and useful amongst us. He kept up his regular preaching from two months, often preaching weekly in the earlier part of his life, and in the congregation the people at some family residence and exhort them to good works. He won his way to the hearts of the people by his amiable and Christian spirit, and having their full confidence, and influence for good. Now you hear it from almost all, "How we will miss Uncle Jake," as he was familiarly called. Many of the preachers of the Memphis Conference will be sorrowful when they hear that Brother Mathis is no more; for his house has been the home of the Methodist preacher for thirty-nine years, and a pleasant home it was. Thank God he was ready for the change, telling the writer but a short time before he breathed his last that there was not a doubt, his way was clear. Calmly and sweetly he gave up the ghost, and was no longer to rest upon the family.
